NARROW ESCAPE OF OTHERS.

Twelve Women and Four Men Imprisoned in the Burning Building-some of Them Meet Death by Jumping, While Others Escape With But Slight Injuries. ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Fire started at 1:45 p. m.. Monday, in the paper stock warehouse of P. J. McArdle, corner of Arch and Church streets. The building was a four story brick structure and was filled with junk. The flames spread with great rapidity, and the entire structure was soon a seething mass of flames upon which the volumes of water seemed to have no effect. In an hour the west wall fell.

An immense crowd of people were attracted to the spot by the dense volumes of smoke. A cry of horror went up as a woman was seen in a fourth story window surrounded by the flames. She looked below for a moment and then jumped to the pavement. Her ribs were fractured and she sustained internal injuries that will prove very serious. Her name is Ellen Frank.

Daniel Gannon, a boy was the next to appear in the window. He jumped, receiving a fracture of the ribs.

Richard Gamble jumped down the elevator shaft and was fatally injured. A Mrs. Prowers jumped from a fourth-story window and fell upon a pile of iron. She was horrible bruised and will die. The latter two were taken to the hospital.

It was impossible to obtain the nanes of the operatives, and naught but a search will reveal the truth or falsity of the exciting removes. A large number were employed. ing rumors. Ten Men Drowned and Their Bodies Cannot be Recovered for Weeks.

The mill was but recently completed. It is built entirely of stone, and the immensity of the same can readily be guessed from the fact that it is the largest paper and pulp mill in the United States. The damage to the mill will reach far into the thousands. The north and east walls of the mill are cracked in many places, and have separated from the floor and roof several

All of the machinery in the north end will have to be set over, as it is all out of place, many shafts being bent.

Efforts Being Made to Settle the London Strike.

THE LORD MAYOR INTERESTED.

A Plan of Settlement Formulated, Which will Be Submitted for Ratification to Meetings of Both Parties-Other Dispatches from Abroad.

London, Sept. 10.—The negotiations looking toward a settlement of the great strike have scarcely been interrupted by the slight outburst of feeling caused by the refusal of the strikers to endorse the action of their leaders in accepting the last compromise proposed. The lord mayor, notwithstanding his threat to wash his hands of the whole business after the strikers had rejected his proposals, was engaged yesterday in the work of harmonizing the two opposing Cardinal Manning and Bishop Tem-ple abiy seconded the lord mayor's efforts, and all three held conferences yesterday with representatives of the dock companies and of the striking laborers. All the parties to these conferences were bound to secrecy, but it is learned that a compromise agreement was formulated which met the approval of all present, and which now requires only the formal ratification of the dock managers on one side and the strikers on the other to make it binding. The agreement will be submitted for ratification to meetings of both parties in interest.

THE CRONIN JURY.

But Little Progress Made in Securing Jurymen.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—But little progress was made yesterday in the work of securing a jury in the Cronin murder trial. When the court adjourned at 4 o'clock but one talesman was held over. Twenty-one were excused by the court during the day for cause and seven were peremptorily challenged by the defense.

Lawyer Forrest, who is defending exDetective Coughlin in the Cronin trial, with the aid of three large and heavy built men, raided the Carlson cottage and succeeded in getting away with pieces of the flooring and walls covered with spots of Cronin's blood. Since the cottage has become famous it has been arranged for the inspection of visitors by the building of a railing across the corner of the room. When the attorney commenced digging up the flooring with a pocket knife Carlson and his son-in-law, Mr. Lindgren, attempted to stop him, Carlson presenting a revolver at Forrest's head.

The three men accompanying Forrest Twenty-one were excused by the court

The three men accompanying Forrest jumped over the railing and overpowered Carlson and Lindgren and held them down on the floor until the lawyer had completed his work. They also took Carlson's revolver away from him. Having secured the specimens, Forrest and his accomplices jumped into a car-riage and drove away. When they had safely seated themselves and the horses had been been whipped up, one of them threw Carlson's revolver back into the yard. Several officers were sent out to hunt Forrest last night, but they were unable to find him. The lawyer's three accomplices are unknown, and Carlson and Lindgren can give but a vague description of them.

State's Attorney Lengenecker said that there was no intention, as stated in a morning paper, of arresting Mrs. Tom Whalen. It is reported that the state are satisfied that they can get more valuable information from her, when she appears as a witness for the defense, as it is stated she will. Were she in the position of one accused of participation in the crime, she could refuse to answer important questions on the ground that her answers might be used against her on her own trial; appearing as a witness for the defense the state may ply her with questions, truthful answers to which may throw much light on the O'Sullivan house and the Carlson cottage on the night of May 4. Should she evade the questions or refuse to answer, it would certainly be prejudicial to the accused men.

Suspect Coughlin's Wife Talks.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 10.—The Journal's Duluth, Minn., special says: Mrs. Maggie Coughlin, wife of the Cronin suspect, is in the city. She says that she is willing to tell what she knows on the witness stand. She avers that the statement that her husband wore his uniform on the night of the murder is incorrect. She complains that she suffered the indignity of having all her personal letters opened in Chicago before they reach her.

Ocean Storm at Atlantic City, N. J.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10. -Atlantic City was visited last night by a terrific ocean storm, the waters extending to a point at least 500 feet from the beach proper, damaging the both houses and pavilions along the beach to the extent of about $50,000. Jackson's pavilion was almost entirely washed away, and Lee's both houses and pavilions were greatly damaged. The board walks in dangerous portions have been roped off by the Bradford Life Guards, which have averted loss of life as the walk is in parts entirely washed away and in some places in a very weak condition. Thousands of people watched the progress of the waters until a late hour, when they began to recede.

THERE are four prominent citizens of Lexington mentioned as candidates for Mayor of that city, among them General Robinson, late Collector of this district. The fight promises to be a lively one.

THE Government now has 452,557 people on the pension rolls. In 1873 there were only 99,808. The amount paid out on this account has increased in same time from $11,000,000 to nearly $100,000,-000. And the end is not yet.

THE Cincinnati Commercial Gazzette says that large numbers of Confederate gogy which seeks to cheat the laboring soldiers will support Mahone on account man out of his vote by making him beof their love for him as a Confederate General. Halstead is indulging in idle talk. They will take delight in vo ing against him.

THE Portsmouth Blade wants the sugar trust smashed by repealing the sugar tax. Foraker in his speech at Zenia last Saturday asserted that "the tariff had nothing whatever to do with trusts." Really these Republicans ought to compare notes and be a little more consistent on the subject of trusts.

PRESIDENT HARRISON'S distribution of the spoils in New York has stirred up a big war among the Republicans of that section. Warner Miller refuses to attend the State convention. He says that Harrison has handed the Empire State over to Platt and Hiscock, and that they may do the nominating and the "falling outside the breastworks" themselves this year. He is tired of the business, and finds that it does not pay.

THE National Grange met at Bangor, Me., the other day, and if its members are to be taken as representatives of the farmers of this country, that class, it seems are getting their eyes open on the tariff question. Mr. J. H. Bigham, Grand Master of the order, delivered an address in which he said:

"Farmers object to belog taxed to enrich other classes. A tariff is a tax. The only question is, does the producer or the consumer pay it? There is no question that the present system falls unjustly upon the farmers. and that it needs readjusting.'

Commenting on this the Courier-Journal says: "There is no law better settled than that all burdens placed upon any commodity fall ultimately upon the consumer."

Cleveland Versus Harrison.

Here's a comparison that few Republicans will like to see published. It is from the Louisville Times:

Grover Cleveland was President during the months of July and August, 1885, when the public debt was reduced $11,-541,842; he was President during the months of July and August, 1886, when the public debt was reduced $10,654,802; he was President during the months of July and August, 1887, when the debt was reduced $9,654,371; he was President during the months of July and August, 1888, when the debt was reduced $11,-461,974.

Ben Harrison was President during the months of July and August, 1889, and for that period the public debt was INCREASED $7,394,006.

It should also be borne in memory that for July and August, 1889, the revenues were greater than for the corresponding months in any year of Cleveland's administration.

That Constitutional Convention Vote

The work of tabulating the official returns of the vote on the Constitutional Convention has reached fifty-eix counties, from Adair to Jefferson inclusive, and the result is as follows: Registered, 159,-357; voting for Constitution, 96,598; majority over all the registered voters, 16,-

The full Presidential vote last November in the same fifty-six counties was 185,299, one-half of which is 92,650. From this it may be seen that there is a majority for the Constitution of 3,948 over the highest actual vote known in the Statea result establishing beyond a doubt or quibble, the express wishes of the people on the necessity for a new Constitu-

It is thought, from a casual survey of the rest of the counties in the State, that there can be question of the adoption of the measure in an equal ratio, both in majority of the registered voters and the actual vote of the last Presidential election.

Henry Clay's "American System."

"The New York Commercial Advertiser has been worrying its Protectionist Third Personally Conducted Excurcontemporaries by reprinting extracts from Henry Clay's tariff speeches," says the Philadelphia Record. "They read very much like current tariff reform editorials. Mr. Clay held that the cost of labor was so inconsiderable an element in the scheme of protection as to be hardly worth mentioning. Our cheap raw materials and the better quality of our labor, he insisted, more than counterbalanced the disadvantage of the low wages of labor in Great Britain. It was 'protected' labor. Skilled workmen obtained $4 per week for eleven hours work per day. Such labor now, unprotected, earns from $6 25 to $8.75 per week for eight hours work per day.

"Mr. Clay disdained the cheap demalieve that to vote for protection is to vote himself better wages. He favored protection as a measure of reprisal against nations whose hostile tariffs affected adversely the trade of the United States. He was in favor of free trade with free traders. 'Go home,' he said in debate with Colonel Hayne, who was born abroad, 'to your native Europe, and there inculcate upon her sovereigns your Utopian doctrine of free trade, and when you have prevailed upon them to unseal their ports and freely admit the produce of this country, come back, and we shall be prepared to become converts and to adopt your faith."

The Turf. Field and Farm.

The Farmer's Home Journal says Kentucky grows one-half of the whole American supply of leaf tobacco.

The wonderful "Guy," 2:103, will try to beat Maud S.'s record, 2:083, Thursday, at Cincinnati, for a purse of $2,500.

The crop builetin for the week endinp September 7 is of a more encouraging tenor generally than those of the previous three or four weeks. The weather was characterized by the most general throughout the State, and much benefit has resulted from them. Reports indicate that the rains have greatly revived vegetation of all kinds, although ripe tobacco. Early tobacco is being rap-State, but the prospect is much better now than it was a week ago. Almost without exception the reports received state that corn is in the best possible condition, and, barring unforeseen detriments, the yield will be unparalleled. The recent heavy rains will tend to make it fill out more thoroughly. Pastures and grass lands are much better than hey were a week ago.

The most successful excursions run this season have been the two personally conducted limited excursions over the C. and O. R'y. They have added greatly to the wide popularity of that beautiful line. The last of the series leaves Cincinnati September 24. It will not be a crowded, uncomfortable journey, but an ideal plessure tour through the heart of the most picture-que and historically interesting regions of America. A su perb special train, vestibuled from end to end, will leave Cincinnati at 8:15 a. m., reach White Sulphur Springs the first night, Natural Bridge the next afternoon, Richmond the day following, and Old Point Comfort the third evening. The tourists will see all interesting points en route, and will be driven in carriages through Richmond. The trip up the Ohio Valley, over the Alleghanies and Blue Ridge, and down the historic Peninsula is made entirely by daylight.

More Uniform Than Brains.

In England we do not dote quite so much upon uniforms as they do in France; and little incidents of this kind are therefore not very likely to occur on this side of the Channel. Still a very well known English cabinet minister -it is needle-s to say that he was a Gladstonian-did once get into difficulties, not through going about in mufti, but through wearing too much uniform. We will not mention the gentleman's name, for he is still extant and it might hurt his dignified Gladstonian feelings This distinguished politician -not even his friends ever thought he was a statesman-was once upon a time first lord of the admiralty. Full of the importance of his office, he determined to wear the gorgeous uniform of lord high admiral, whose representative he was. The first time he had official business with the fleet the right honorable gentleman put on his uniform and went aboard one of her majesty's ships. The minister, who liked to look upon himself as lord high admiral, had his flag run up and the vessel started. In a few minutes one of the officers came up and politely touched his hat to the first lord. "If you please, sir, what are your orders?" he asked. "Orders! what orders?" "As your flag is flying you are in command." "But I don't understand at all." "Well, sir, you are in command, and in a few minutes we shall run into the queen's yacht. Will you give me my orders?" The unlucky first lord became crimson with vexation, and the lord high admiral's pennant was promptly hauled down .- St. James' Gazette.

"Shooting" Wells with Torpedos.

An effective mode for increasing the yield of wells is to "shoot" them with nitro-glycerine. This was done with excellent results in Pennsylvania. The well operated upon was a six-inch one, with a depth of three hundred and fifteen feet. It was bored principally through solid rock. The result of the explosion was expected to open up a region a hundred and fifty feet in diameter, thus tapping a large area for drawing room. A torpedo six inches in diameter and two feet six inches long was filled with rackarock, with a quarter gallon can of nitro-glycerine at the bot-tom, and was lowered with a tarred rope and deposited at the bottom of the well. A smaller torpedo, containing more rackarock, with a small copper fulminate of mercury cap and fuse leading to the surface, was then sent down. In two minutes after the fuse was lighted the water in the well was thrown a hundred feet into the air and the work was done.-New York Telegram.
